INFERMENTAL

The first international magazine on videocassettes

internationales forum des jungen films

INFERMENTAL is an international magazine, appearing several times each year on Video-cassette, set up as a type of encyclopedia for new tendencies from all culturell areas. The various editions are then let out to institutions or private persons and can also be purchased as a complete archive.

INFERMENTAL functions internationally as a circulating info-storage.

INFERMENTAL shows, in a brand new way, interdisciplinary collections with film examples, festival write-ups, interviews, personal statements, scientific articles, examples for film an video experiments, music clips, trendy local articles and documentations.

INFERMENTAL is moved on continuously to new places by an independent network, where it is produced an distributed by new editors. Each editorial can therefore use its own concept ; the project develops continuously - there is no rigid control. INFERMENTAL does not want to compete with the present media systems, but feels itself more as a constructive extenditure. Also compared with further communicationdevelopments, i.e. cable TV, picture plates, digitalstorage possibilities, independant networks.
